KEY RISKS AND RISK MANAGEMENT

The client should not invest in this Fund if the client does not understand or is not comfortable with the accompanying risks.

- Interest Rate Risk. This is the possibility for an investor to experience losses due to changes in interest rates. The purchase and sale of a debt instrument may result in profit or loss because the value of a debt instrument changes inversely with prevailing interest rates.
- Liquidity Risk. This is the possibility for an investor to experience losses due to the inability to sell or convert assets into cash immediately or in instances where conversion to cash is possible but at a loss. These may be caused by different reasons such as trading in securities with small or few outstanding issues, absence of buyers, limited buy/sell activity or underdeveloped capital market.
- Credit/Default Risk. This is the possibility for an investor to experience losses due to a borrower's failure to pay principal and/or interest in a timely manner on instruments such as bonds, loans or other forms of security which the borrower issued. It also includes risk on a counterparty (a party the Trustee trades with) defaulting on a contract to deliver its obligation either in cash or securities.
- Reinvestment Risk. This is the possibility for an investor to have lower returns or earnings when maturing funds or the interest earnings of funds are reinvested.

The Trustee only transacts with reputable counterparties and invests in debt securities issued by prime corporate borrowers which have undergone a rigorous accreditation and evaluation process. Regulatory exposure limits as well as the Fund's average duration are monitored regularly to ensure that exposures are managed. The Fund also undergoes an annual review to ensure that it is equipped to fund any redemption requirement in a timely manner and at a reasonable cost during times of financial stress.

OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

In May, the peso yield curve bull flattened as the possibility of earlier policy rate cuts were renewed due to the central bank's less hawkish remarks amid lower than expected inflation data. Yields across the curve went down by 19 basis points (bps) on average, with the belly outperforming, falling 27 bps on average. The 7-year rate fell the most by 33bps to end at 6.6272%, while the 5-year yield fell by 27 bps to 6.5134%. Rates in the long-end went down by 24 bps, with the 10-year rate falling 28 bps from 7.029% in April to 6.7516% in May. Meanwhile, the short-end rates went down by 6 bps, with the 1-year yield almost unchanged from 6.0633% to 6.0653%. Total value traded for May was Php595.689 billion, a 13% increased versus April's Php528.933 billion. The Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas' (BSP) bills continued to generate majority or 42% of trading activity, accounting for Php250.673 billion of trades versus previous month's Php237.275 billion. Meanwhile, FXTNs accounted for 26% or Php152.902 billion of trading volume.

Headline inflation rose for the third consecutive month in April, reaching 3.8%, driven by increased costs in food and transport. Despite this, it remained below market expectations and within the BSP's target range of 2-4%. Meanwhile, core inflation, which excludes volatile food and fuel prices, slowed to 3.2% in April from 3.4% in March. Food inflation rose to 6.3% from 5.7% in March, while rice inflation decreased slightly to 23.9% from 24.4% the previous month. The BSP noted that April's inflation figure align with the forecast that inflation might temporarily jump or exceed the target range in the near term due to the negative effects of adverse weather conditions on agriculture and base effects.

As for the broad economy, gross domestic product (GDP) growth came lower than expected, making a case for the BSP to keep rates steady despite inflation accelerating for the past couple of months. The country's GDP grew by 5.7% in the 1st quarter of 2024, which surpassed that of most of its Southeast Asian peers. This was despite a slowdown in consumption and government spending. Household spending, which accounts for more than 70% of economic output, rose by 4.6%, the slowest after the Covid-19 pandemic. The weaker consumption could be attributed to high inflation reducing purchasing power and the El Nino phenomenon putting upward pressure on prices. There was also weakness in the labor market, as unemployment rate jumped to a two-month high in March to 3.9% from 3.5% in the previous month, or equivalent to two million jobless Filipinos, as inflation and El Nino limited economic output.

Despite some challenges, other data still pointed to a robust economy. The manufacturing sector expanded in April, with the PMI rising to 52.2 from 50.9 in March, the fastest face in five months, driven by increased new orders and export growth leading to higher production and inventory expansion. The country's PMI also outperformed the ASEAN average of 51, alongside Indonesia at 52.9 and Vietnam at 50.3. Meanwhile, cash remittances from overseas Filipinos grew by 2.5% year-on-year in March to $2.74 billion, though this was the slowest pace in nine months due to currency fluctuations. Year-to-date, remittances increased by 2.7% to $8.22 billion, mainly from the US, Saudi Arabia, UAE, and Singapore. The BSP expects a 3.0% growth in remittances for the year. Borrowing activity also showed growth as loans of big banks accelerated to 9.6% in April despite the high-interest rate environment. Loans from universal and commercial banks expanded by 9.6% to Php11.91 trillion, up from 9.4% in March or Php11.7 trillion, indicating robust demand for loans despite the high borrowing costs.

Amid inflation and mixed economic data, the BSP maintained the policy rate at 6.50% for the fifth straight meeting in May. BSP Governor Remolona highlighted that inflation risks persist due to potential increases in transportation, food, electricity, and global oil prices. The BSP also revised its inflation forecast for this year to 3.8% from 4.0%, and to 3.7% from 3.5% for 2025. Governor Remolona noted that the Monetary Board is less hawkish and may cut rates by the third or fourth quarter of this year, possibly as early as August. Department of Finance Secretary Recto also noted that the BSP may cut rates by a total of 150 bps until 2025 as long as inflation remains within target.

In the local bond space, the Bureau of Treasury (BTr) pushed through with its weekly auctions totaling an offer of Php62 billion worth of bills and Php150 billion bonds for the month. It fully awarded its bills as rates fell by an average of 10 bps versus the previous month. However, it fell short of its bond offerings as it awarded only Php94.245 billion out of the Php150 billion program as the BTr capped rates amidst the market's defensive bids. Its t-bill auctions were met with strong demand, averaging 3.4 times bid-to-cover ratio (BCR), while its bond auctions averaged 1.8 times BCR, a slight improvement from April's 1.3.

In the coming month, we expect the market to await May inflation data to give a clearer picture of the inflation trajectory and the BSP's future policy movements. The BSP projects May's inflation to settle within a range of 3.7% to 4.5% due to elevated power and food prices. The market will also take its cue from the fresh supply of bills and bonds for the month.
