KEY RISKS AND RISK MANAGEMENT

The client should not invest in this Fund if the client does not understand or is not comfortable with the accompanying risks.

- Interest Rate Risk. This is the possibility for an investor to experience losses due to changes in interest rates. The purchase and sale of a debt instrument may result in profit or loss because the value of a debt instrument changes inversely with prevailing interest rates.
- Market/Price Risk. This is the possibility for an investor to experience losses due to changes in the market price of securities. It is the exposure to the uncertain market value of a portfolio due to price fluctuations.
- Liquidity Risk. This is the possibility for an investor to experience losses due to the inability to sell or convert assets into cash immediately or in instances where conversion to cash is possible but at a loss. These may be caused by different reasons such as trading in securities with small or few outstanding issues, absence of buyers, limited buy/sell activity or underdeveloped capital market.
- Credit/Default Risk. This is the possibility for an investor to experience losses due to a borrower's failure to pay principal and/or interest in a timely manner on instruments such as bonds, loans or other forms of security which the borrower issued. It also includes risk on a counterparty (a party the Trustee trades with) defaulting on a contract to deliver its obligation either in cash or securities.
- Reinvestment Risk. This is the possibility for an investor to have lower returns or earnings when maturing funds or the interest earnings of funds are reinvested.
- Country Risk. This is the possibility for an investor to experience losses arising from investments in securities issued by/in foreign countries due to political, economic and social structures of such countries. There are risks in foreign investments due to the possible internal and external conflicts, currency devaluations, foreign ownership limitations and tax increases of the foreign country which are difficult to predict but must be taken into account when making such investments.

The Trustee only transacts with reputable counterparties and invests in debt securities issued by countries and prime corporate borrowers which have undergone a rigorous accreditation and evaluation process. Regulatory exposure limits as well as the Fund's average duration are monitored regularly to ensure that exposures are managed. The Fund also employs risk management measures to monitor significant declines in the Fund's NAVPU and alert the Trustee to review current strategies and take corrective action as necessary. Furthermore, the Fund undergoes an annual review to ensure that it is equipped to fund any redemption requirement in a timely manner and at a reasonable cost during times of financial stress.

OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

The US Federal Reserve (Fed) reduced its policy rate by 25 bps in December, bringing the target range to 3.50%–3.75%. The decision saw 9 members voting for a 25 bps cut, 2 favoring no change, and 1 calling for a larger 50 bps reduction. This move brought cumulative easing to 75 bps for 2025 and 175 bps over the past year. Alongside the rate decision, the Fed released its updated dot plot, which now signals a more measured easing path ahead. Committee members are forecasting only one 25 bps cut in each of 2026 and 2027, while the long-run neutral policy rate is projected at 3.00%. Separately, the Fed announced it would resume Treasury bill purchases of $40 billion per month, effectively ending its balance sheet runoff. Similarly, the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas (BSP) reduced its policy rate by 25 bps to 4.50% at its December Monetary Board meeting. This decision marked the 5th consecutive rate cut in 2025, bringing total easing to 125 bps for the year and 200 bps since the start of the easing cycle. BSP Governor Remolona indicated that monetary policy may be nearing the tail end of the easing phase.

Government bond markets reacted to these policy developments. In the US Treasury market, yields on securities with maturities under 1-year declined by an average of 15 bps, the 2-year yield edged down by 2 bps, while yields on the 10-year and longer tenors rose by around 15 bps. In the Philippines, the dollar-denominated yield curve continued to steepen in December. Yields on securities under 1-year eased by an average of 8 bps, the 2-year ticked up by 1 bp, while yields on the 10-year and longer tenors increased by about 5 bps. Despite the recent uptick, yields remain significantly lower compared to a year ago. US 2-year and 10-year yields are down by 88 bps and 51 bps, respectively, while their Philippine counterparts are down by 96 bps and 63 bps, respectively.

Looking ahead, markets will continue to closely monitor upcoming macroeconomic data for guidance on future policy moves. Chair Powell acknowledged that near-term inflation risks remain tilted to the upside, while employment risks are skewed to the downside, though he also noted that the key takeaway remains that rate hikes are not part of the base case. Meanwhile, the futures market is pricing in a more aggressive 50 bps easing for the coming year. Against this backdrop, the Fund will continue to manage duration close to the benchmark while remaining selective and opportunistic in bond purchases, aiming to enhance portfolio yield gradually.
