A client profiling process shall be performed prior to participating in the Fund to guide the prospective investor if the Fund is suited to his/her investment objectives and risk tolerance. Before deciding to invest, clients are advised to read the Declaration of Trust, a copy of which is available at the Trustee's principal office.

The Chinabank Dollar Fixed Income Fund is suitable only for investors who:

- have a moderate risk appetite;
- are willing to assume a certain level of risk in consideration for higher returns; and
- have an investment horizon of at least five (5) years.

KEY RISKS AND RISK MANAGEMENT

The client should not invest in this Fund if the client does not understand or is not comfortable with the accompanying risks.

- Interest Rate Risk. This is the possibility for an investor to experience losses due to changes in interest rates. The purchase and sale of a debt instrument may result in profit or loss because the value of a debt instrument changes inversely with prevailing interest rates.
- Market/Price Risk. This is the possibility for an investor to experience losses due to changes in the market price of securities. It is the exposure to the uncertain market value of a portfolio due to price fluctuations.
- Liquidity Risk. This is the possibility for an investor to experience losses due to the inability to sell or convert assets into cash immediately or in instances where conversion to cash is possible but at a loss. These may be caused by different reasons such as trading in securities with small or few outstanding issues, absence of buyers, limited buy/sell activity or underdeveloped capital market.
- Credit/Default Risk. This is the possibility for an investor to experience losses due to a borrower's failure to pay principal and/or interest in a timely manner on instruments such as bonds, loans or other forms of security which the borrower issued. It also includes risk on a counterparty (a party the Trustee trades with) defaulting on a contract to deliver its obligation either in cash or securities.
- Reinvestment Risk. This is the possibility for an investor to have lower returns or earnings when maturing funds or the interest earnings of funds are reinvested.
- Country Risk. This is the possibility for an investor to experience losses arising from investments in securities issued by/in foreign countries due to political, economic and social structures of such countries. There are risks in foreign investments due to the possible internal and external conflicts, currency devaluations, foreign ownership limitations and tax increases of the foreign country which are difficult to predict but must be taken into account when making such investments.

The Trustee only transacts with reputable counterparties and invests in debt securities issued by countries and prime corporate borrowers which have undergone a rigorous accreditation and evaluation process. Regulatory exposure limits as well as the Fund's average duration are monitored regularly to ensure that exposures are managed. The Fund also employs risk management measures to monitor significant declines in the Fund's NAVPu and alert the Trustee to review current strategies and take corrective action as necessary. Furthermore, the Fund undergoes an annual review to ensure that it is equipped to fund any redemption requirement in a timely manner and at a reasonable cost during times of financial stress.

OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

In May, the yield curve bull flattened on renewed calls for policy rate cuts by the Federal Reserve (Fed) amid lower than expected inflation and weak economic data. Yields across the curve fell by 17 basis points (bps) on average, with the belly outperforming, falling by 18 bps on average. The 5-year rate fell the most by 20 bps ending at 4.52%, while the 2-year rate declined by 15 bps fetching 4.89%. The 10-year rate meanwhile fell by 18 bps from 4.69% in April to 4.51% in May. With this, the benchmark 2-year versus 10-year spread widened to -38 bps from -0.35 bps last month. In the Philippines, ROP rates moved similarly with US treasuries as yields declined by 12 bps on average. The 2-year ROP rate fell by 3 bps to end at 5.10%, while the 10-year rate was down 15 bps to fetch 5.30%.

The Fed maintained policy rates steady for the sixth consecutive time, leaving the federal funds target rate unchanged at 5.25% to 5.5%. Fed Chairman Jerome Powell acknowledged the high inflation data for the first quarter, noting that it may take longer than expected for the Fed to be confident in the economy's sustainable path toward 2% inflation. He also noted that the central bank was keeping an eye on the jobs market, which has shown resilience in the face of monetary policy tightening. The Fed meeting, however, came before April's inflation report, which showed a 3.4% annual consumer price index (CPI) print, down 0.1% from March and within expectations. Monthly inflation was 0.3%, slightly below forecasts, marking the first slowdown since January but still above the Fed's target. Shelter costs rose 0.4%, and gasoline surged 2.8%, contributing over 70% of the CPI increase, while food remained steady at 2.2%. Core inflation, excluding food and energy, was 0.3% monthly and 3.6% annually. Despite some improvements, Fed Chair Jerome Powell stated that inflation is decreasing slower than anticipated, leading the Fed to maintain its current stance while waiting for more evidence of slowing inflation. He does not foresee rate hikes in the near future. Meanwhile, the personal consumption expenditure (PCE) index, the Fed’s preferred inflation gauge, remained steady at 2.7% in April, primarily due to increases in energy (+1.2%) and food (+1.3%) prices. Excluding the volatile and energy category, core PCE was up by 2.8%, higher than estimates.

Macroeconomic data indicated some weakness in the US economy. The revised first quarter gross domestic product (GDP) grew by 1.3%, down from 3.4% in Q4 2023 and below the 1.6% estimate. This slowdown was due to reduced consumer spending, which dropped to 2.0% from 2.5%, with declines in goods and big-ticket items like motor vehicles. Meanwhile, US retail sales were flat in April after a 0.6% rise in March, affected by higher gasoline prices. Sales rose 0.3%, below the 0.4% estimate as consumers prioritized essentials over luxury items amid higher prices. Excluding autos, gasoline, and building materials, retail sales fell 0.3%. Additionally, the US housing sector hit a four-year low in April. Existing home sales dropped 1.9%, and new single-family home sales fell 4.7% due to high mortgage rates and prices. Pending home sales fell 7.7% to 72.3, the slowest since April 2020, as high interest rates dampened demand despite increased inventory.

Meanwhile, the US jobs market showed some easing, as fewer jobs than expected were added in April. The unemployment rate also increased, raising hopes for potential policy rates cuts by the Fed. Nonfarm payrolls grew by 175,000, below the 240,000 estimate in April. The unemployment rate rose to 3.9%, contrary to expectations of it remaining at 3.8%. Average hourly earnings increased by 0.2% month-over-month and 3.9% year-over-year, both below estimates, which is a positive sign for inflation.

In the coming month, we expect the market to take its cue from key macroeconomic data including inflation and jobs report to dictate market sentiment and shed light on the Fed’s policy rate moves moving forward.
