KEY RISKS AND RISK MANAGEMENT

The client should not invest in this Fund if the client does not understand or is not comfortable with the accompanying risks.

- Interest Rate Risk. This is the possibility for an investor to experience losses due to changes in interest rates. The purchase and sale of a debt instrument may result in profit or loss because the value of a debt instrument changes inversely with prevailing interest rates.
- Market/Price Risk. This is the possibility for an investor to experience losses due to changes in the market price of securities. It is the exposure to the uncertain market value of a portfolio due to price fluctuations.
- Liquidity Risk. This is the possibility for an investor to experience losses due to the inability to sell or convert assets into cash immediately or in instances where conversion to cash is possible but at a loss. These may be caused by different reasons such as trading in securities with small or few outstanding issues, absence of buyers, limited buy/sell activity or underdeveloped capital market.
- Credit/Default Risk. This is the possibility for an investor to experience losses due to a borrower's failure to pay principal and/or interest in a timely manner on instruments such as bonds, loans or other forms of security which the borrower issued. It also includes risk on a counterparty (a party the Trustee trades with) defaulting on a contract to deliver its obligation either in cash or securities.
- Reinvestment Risk. This is the possibility for an investor to have lower returns or earnings when maturing funds or the interest earnings of funds are reinvested.
- Country Risk. This is the possibility for an investor to experience losses arising from investments in securities issued by/in foreign countries due to political, economic and social structures of such countries. There are risks in foreign investments due to the possible internal and external conflicts, currency devaluations, foreign ownership limitations and tax increases of the foreign country which are difficult to predict but must be taken into account when making such investments.

The Trustee only transacts with reputable counterparties and invests in debt securities issued by countries and prime corporate borrowers which have undergone a rigorous accreditation and evaluation process. Regulatory exposure limits as well as the Fund's average duration are monitored regularly to ensure that exposures are managed. The Fund also employs risk management measures to monitor significant declines in the Fund's NAVPU and alert the Trustee to review current strategies and take corrective action as necessary. Furthermore, the Fund undergoes an annual review to ensure that it is equipped to fund any redemption requirement in a timely manner and at a reasonable cost during times of financial stress.

AS SUCH, THE UNITS OF PARTICIPATION OF THE CLIENT IN THE UITF, WHEN REDEEMED, MAY BE WORTH MORE OR WORTH LESS THAN HIS/HER INITIAL INVESTMENT/CONTRIBUTION.

The Bloomberg EM USD Sovereign-Philippine Total Return Index is a market value-based, unhedged index that tracks the performance of Philippine sovereign bonds denominated in US Dollars, particularly ROP bonds of different maturities. The benchmark provides a standard for evaluating the Fund's performance by helping investors/participants understand how the Fund is performing relative to the market or asset class the Fund represents. #### OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

Yields across the Philippine dollar-denominated curve declined in October, with the 2-year yield falling by 6bps to 4.053%, while the 10-year dropped by 2bps to 4.694%. This mirrored the movements in the US Treasury market, where the 2-year and 10-year yields fell by 0.4bp and 5bps to 3.589% and 4.112%, respectively.

Safe-haven demand emerged as the US government went into shutdown after Democrats and Republicans failed to agree on a deal to keep the government funded. As a result, the collection and reporting of key economic data were delayed, including the Non-Farm Payrolls and Unemployment Rate for September from the Bureau of Labor Statistics. Nonetheless, markets were able to form a picture of the labor market through the ADP report, showing that 32,000 private-sector jobs were lost, while the prior month was revised to a 3,000 loss from an initially reported 54,000 gain. Meanwhile, given the need for inflation data in calculating Social Security benefits, the CPI figures were released, albeit delayed. Both headline and core CPI came in better than expected at 3.0% versus the 3.1% consensus. With the labor market remaining weak and inflation still above target, markets turned their focus to the Federal Reserve's policy decision. Towards the end of the month, as widely expected, the Fed delivered another 25bp cut following a similar move in September, bringing policy rates to 3.75% to 4.00%. Additionally, the Fed announced the end of its balance sheet reduction program, or Quantitative Tightening, by December 1, with maturing securities to be reinvested. Notably, Fed Chair Powell remarked during the post-meeting press conference that another rate cut in December is not a foregone conclusion. This followed a divided 10–2 vote, with 10 members voting for the 25bp cut, one preferring a 50bp cut, and one voting against.

Looking ahead, markets will watch for updates on the government shutdown and the subsequent release of key labor and inflation data to determine whether the Fed will ease again in the final meeting of the year. In this context, the Fund will continue to manage its duration near the benchmark while remaining selective and opportunistic in bond purchases to gradually enhance portfolio yield.
